Abstract. The Sabine Mining Company has been involved with numerous education and orientation functions for many years. The mining company is actively involved with annual Earth Day activities, local schools, the Chamber of Commerce, and community events. Local students can tour the mine as part of a study credit program. The mine's participation in these activities helps convey the importance of mining (specifically lignite mining) and how responsible reclamation allows the use of lignite as a low cost fuel source and returns the land to an equal or better state prior to mining.
